POLICE APOLOGY TO MARK'S FAMILY

Watchdog suggested Duggan had fired at officers on day of shooting

THE police watchdog has apologised to Mark Duggan's family after it "wrongly led the media to believe he had fired at police officers" on the evening he was shot dead.

The Independent Police Complaints Commission issued a statement following a meeting between its chairwoman Dame Alice Owers, deputy chairwoman Rachel Cerfontyne and members of Mr Duggan's family on Tuesday last week.

The 29-year-old was shot dead by a police marksman in Ferry Lane, Tottenham, on August 4, 2011, after armed officers stopped the minicab in which he was travelling as a passenger.

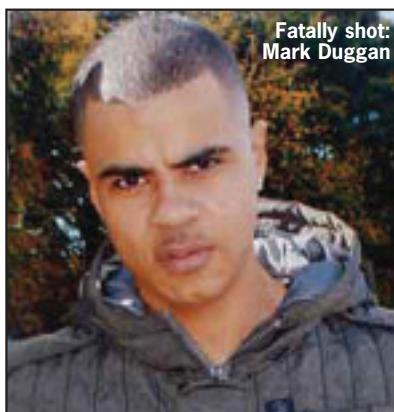

His death sparked riots which spread across the borough and nationwide in the coming days.

Earlier this month, a jury at the Royal Courts of Justice ruled that the father-of-six had been lawfully killed, even though he had not been armed at the time of the shooting.

Following the conclusion of the inquest and after assessing the evidence, the IPCC said it would be looking at "what further steps we need to take".

The statement from Ms Cerfontyne also apologised for "mistakes made in the early stages" of the investigation into the fatal shooting.

It said: "We know the family's confidence in us and our investigation was damaged by mistakes made in the early stages - both in relation to inaccurate information we provided to the media and the initial management of the incident.

"I would like again to record my sincere apology to them that on the evening that Mark was fatally shot by a police officer, a member of our staff wrongly led the media to believe that he had fired at police officers.

"I fully understand the damaging impact of this. "Post-incident management is something that has been of concern, not only to the Duggan family but also to many of those we consulted in our review of the way we investigate deaths. We are taking steps to deal with those criticisms.

"In deaths that follow police contact, the police, by definition, will always be first on the scene.

"However, our senior investigators now issue instructions to them from the outset and we are providing scene management training to our investigators.

"A key part of our expansion plans is to strengthen our capacity to take control of scenes at the earliest possible stage."

Ms Cerfontyne added that there would be new guidance which would see police officers banned from conferring before making statements after incidents such as Mr Duggan's shooting.

She said that the Met would also be looking to interview "some key witnesses who have so far declined to speak to or be interviewed by us or whose accounts are inconsistent with other evidence".

That includes police officers, whom, she said, the IPCC expects to "cooperate fully with us if required, including answering questions at interview, something they have so far refused to do".

Ms Cerfontyne added: "I am determined that we should conclude this investigation as thoroughly and quickly as we can."

Firearms officers 'would kill again'

TWO officers from the firearms unit that shot Mark Duggan dead have said they would kill again if they thought their colleagues' lives were at risk.

The two were speaking in the BBC1 Panorama programme Shooting To Kill?, broadcast on Monday evening.

The firearms officers were not involved in the fatal shooting of the 29-year-old in Ferry Lane, Tottenham, in August 2011, but have killed before in the line of duty.

One said: "It's extremely difficult, especially when you think that you're doing the right thing and you're being trained to do something to protect the public and protect your colleagues, that you then face the potential of prosecution."

The documentary was shown on the same day that the Metropolitan Police admitted that it was wrong not to review the hard-stop tactic used in the lead-up to Mr Duggan's death, despite being advised to do so by the complaints watchdog.

The father-of-six was shot dead after the minicab in which he was travelling as a passenger was halted by armed officers who believed that Mr Duggan might be armed.

That was six years after the Independent Police Complaints Commission ordered that the Met review the tactic, following the fatal shooting of a suspected drug dealer, Azelle Rodney, in Edgware in 2005.

Assistant Met Police commissioner Mark Rowley told the BBC: "Perhaps some formal paperwork and formal thinking should have been done at the time.

"It wasn't, but we're constantly looking at the tactic.

"If anyone has a better idea on how you confront armed criminals in vehicles with a view to arresting them safely and seizing their weapons, then we're up for better ideas.

"People say review, but people don't come forward with better ideas."

Buckingham Palace knifeman is jailed

A MAN who admitted trying to enter Buckingham Palace armed with a knife has been jailed for 16 months.

David Belmar, 44, of Daleview Road, Seven Sisters, was sentenced at Southwark Crown Court last Wednesday after pleading guilty to trespassing on a protected site and being in possession of a bladed/pointed article.

He had been due to be sentenced in November, but that was adjourned until psychiatric reports had been received by the court.

The reports revealed that Belmar had been suffering from paranoid schizophrenia for more than a decade and had been on anti-psychotic drugs. Judge Michael Gledhill ruled that had no bearing on his actions.

Belmar was arrested after hurdling a barrier at the north gate of the palace on October 14.

When police officers searched him, they found a six-inch knife in his possession.

Westminster Magistrates' Court heard at the hearing on October 15 that Belmar had been upset as his £110 incapacity benefit had been cut following an assessment the previous month.

He was told he was eligible for jobseekers' allowance instead and told to seek work, but was not happy with that ruling.

Charity's £100k grant

A CHARITY has been awarded a £100,000 grant to help young people with learning difficulties find paid work.

Action for Kids, based in Tottenham Lane, Hornsey, received the money from the City of London Corporation's charity, City Bridge Trust, and will use the funding to provide employment coaching for youngsters with learning disabilities.

Charged with murder

A MAN charged with murder following a shooting two years ago has been remanded in custody.

Omer Murat, 27, of no fixed address, who was arrested on Tuesday last week, is due to enter a plea at the Old Bailey on April 4. A provisional trial date has been set for July 7.

He is accused of the murder of Ali Armagan, 32, who was shot dead as he sat in his car in Langham Parade, near Turnpike Lane Tube station, on February 1, 2012.

COUNCIL chiefs have admitted they may have been "overzealous" in writing to football clubs to remind them about the spitting ban.

Winchmore Hill FC secretary Chris Langford told the Advertiser that the club had received a letter informing them that spitting anywhere in the borough was now an offence punishable by prosecution and that players should bear this in mind on the pitch.

The Advertiser can reveal that clubs in the borough who use pitches

Spitting ban reminder to sports clubs owned by Enfield Council received identical missives. However, leading light of the anti-spitting movement and cabinet member for environment Chris Bond insisted the letter was meant as a "polite reminder", not as a warning that players who spat out water or saliva in the middle of a football match would be slapped with a fine.

He stressed that council officers would be using "common sense" to enforce the ban and added: "We'll be clarifying our position with the football clubs but there is no intention to prosecute anyone playing football, or doing other exercise, on our sports grounds."

But a baffled Mr Langford said that, regardless of intention, it would be almost impossible to police sportsmen on the pitch.

"All I can say is it's a good thing that the London Marathon doesn't run through Enfield," he added.

"It is a filthy habit in the street and in parks when kids are around – but when sports are being played it's very hard to control players on the pitch.

"When they have a mouthful of something, well, they're going to try to get rid of it."

Mixed messages over bid to reduce sugar intake

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AS evidence mounts that sugar is one of the most dangerous substances we can give to children, the council has been providing contradictory advice to parents.

Faced with the epic task of reversing the borough's infamous status as having some of the highest childhood obesity rates in London, Enfield Council has launched a number of initiatives to try and save children from the ticking time bomb of metabolic diseases.

In guidance issued last week it was suggested that parents preparing packed lunches for children could replace crisps and biscuits with "fruit and juice" – but experts suggest that some fruit juice contains as much sugar as a can of cola.

The council revised its guidelines after being contacted by the Advertiser, and in a new press release instructing editors to ignore the previous statement due to "incorrect wording", there was no mention of giving "juice" to children.

It comes as the Action On Sugar campaign gathers pace with scientists and doctors joining forces to try and curb the nation's sugar habit.

The campaign's scientific director, cardiologist Dr Aseem Malhotra, told the Advertiser that he found any suggestion that children should be drinking juice as a healthy option "very worrying".

"In fruit juice, you basically have a very high level of liquid sugar in the form of sucrose and fructose, so the body absorbs the sugar in liquid form but it won't make you feel full because it lacks the fibre of whole fruit," he said. "Four or five oranges can go into a glass of orange juice, but it is without the fibre. A child is taking on all the calories without the fibre."

However, after sending out the amended press release, a council spokesman seemed to insist that fruit juice was in fact a healthy option.

When asked if any schools in Enfield would be following the lead of Valence Primary, in east London, by banning fruit juice, he replied: "Most primary schools have a food policy in place which is set at the individual school.

"Fruit juice is a nutritious choice, providing vitamins and helping to increase iron absorption in foods.

"Consuming juice with a meal ensures there is a minimal impact on teeth."

Emergency patients forced to wait more than four hours for treatment

New figures reveal that hospitals repeatedly failed to meet targets set by the government

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

THOUSANDS of emergency patients have had to wait more than four hours before receiving treatment at North Middlesex and Barnet hospitals over the past seven weeks, new figures show.

Figures obtained by the Advertiser from NHS England reveal that between the week ending December 1 and the week ending January 12, Barnet Hospital, in Wellhouse Lane, High Barnet, met the government target of treating 95 per cent of A&E patients within four hours only once.

That was in the week ending December 8 – just before Chase Farm’s A&E department closed.

The accident and emergency unit at the hospital in The Ridgeway, Enfield, was closed on December 9 under the Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Clinical Strategy – with patients instead being taken to Barnet Hospital or North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton.

But to relieve pressure, the Barnet and Chase Farm Hospitals NHS Trust has used a proportion of a recently allocated £5.1million in extra winter funding to reopen wards for inpatients at Chase Farm.

But in the week ending January 12, only 91.6 per cent of emergency patients were seen within four hours at Barnet.

The North Mid fared better, hitting the target three times over the same seven-week period.

Still figuring things out: North Middlesex University Hospital

But its performance hit a low point in the week ending January 12 – with just 92.8 per cent of patients seen within four hours.

Over the seven week-period, 23,764 patients attended the emergency unit at North Mid – on average 3,395 people per week.

Barnet’s A&E dealt with 16,194 over the same period – an average of 2,313 attendances per week.

At the Edmonton hospital a total of 567 emergency patients had to wait between four and 12 hours to be admitted to a ward during the seven weeks, compared to 251 at Barnet.

But in the week before last, two patients at Barnet Hospital had to wait more than 12 hours for admission.

Alev Cazimoglu, chairwoman of Enfield Council’s health and well-being scrutiny panel, told the Advertiser: “Attendances are going up and more patients are waiting longer on trolleys before admission.

“That is worrying considering the fact that we are experiencing a mild winter.

“The figures reveal there is real pressure on beds, which causes delays. There are clearly not enough of them.”

A spokeswoman for Barnet and Chase Farm Hospitals NHS Trust said: “As expected, the new emergency department at Barnet has seen an increase in acute and life-threatening attendances.

“The trust has planned for this and has coped well through the transitional period. The strategy intended an increase in clinical quality.

“Staff medical rotas have been changed to ensure there is seven-day consultant presence in A&E from early morning into the late evening.”

A spokesman for the North Mid said: “A&E activity and case mix fluctuates on an hourly, daily and weekly basis, which can impact on performance.

“Achieving four-hour performance targets requires a whole system approach, including primary, community and mental health care.

“We are confident we will meet the 95 per cent standard in the final quarter of the year.”

‘Many people still shocked to find out A&E is closed’

THE death of a two-year-old boy, who was mistakenly taken to Chase Farm Hospital by his mother because she thought she could go to emergency services there, has raised concerns over the level of public awareness of the A&E closure.

Muhammad Hashir Naveed died at North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, last Wednesday, having initially been taken to Chase Farm Hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield.

Since the accident and emergency department at Chase Farm closed on December 9, patients requiring life-saving treatment are now taken to the North Mid or Barnet Hospital.

Kate Wilkinson, of the Save Chase Farm campaign, said: “The health service is extremely fragmented and there is a lot of confusion about what services are offered in the various locations.

“Many people I speak to are still shocked when I tell them that A&E at Chase Farm is closed. The message clearly is not getting through.”

Enfield North Conservative MP Nick de Bois said that people were confronted with what appears to be “a mishmash of services” in the borough.

“The consequence of the downgrade of Chase Farm is that you now have an urgent care centre instead of an A&E,” he said.

“People are asked to make a decision about care at a time when they are in crisis, which is not something many people could do. I think there has been a failure to think this through.”

In a statement, the Enfield, Barnet and

Speaking out: Campaigner Kate Wilkinson

Haringey clinical commissioning groups and the Barnet and Chase Farm Hospitals NHS Trust said that its joint public information campaign, known as Choose Well, has been directing patients to the most appropriate service.

The campaign included posters, leaflets, and cards delivered to every healthcare provider across the three boroughs, as well as the creation of a smartphone application called Choose Well North London.

A spokeswoman for the CCGs said: “We are clear that we have communicated extensively the changes regarding the opening of the new urgent care centre at Chase Farm and the closure of the A&E.

“This has also been widely reported by local and regional news agencies, including the Enfield Advertiser – often as a lead story.”

Harrowing journey of Holocaust victim

Memorial day play depicts woman's experiences

SCHOOLCHILDREN and councillors will mark Holocaust Memorial Day by viewing a one-woman play about a victim's journey.

The theme of this year's Holocaust Memorial Day events is journeys and Enfield Council is hosting performances of Etty, a play based on the diaries and letters of Esther Hillesum, a young Dutch Jewish student, who lived in Amsterdam when it was occupied by the Nazis.

Next Monday, 120 students from secondary schools across the borough will attend a special performance of the play at the Dugdale Centre, in London Road, Enfield Town.

It tells Etty's story of depression while living under Nazi rule and then her experience being interned in the Westerbork transit camp before being taken to Auschwitz concentration camp.

She died in November 1943, aged 29.

The play will be repeated for dignitaries in the evening, which will also include speeches from councillors and rabbis.

Council leader Doug Taylor said: "Holocaust Memorial Day alerts us to the atrocities of genocides – whether they happened over 70 years ago or in more recent times.

"It is a sharp reminder of the violent extremes that produce such human disasters. And among the chaos, brave people have recorded their experiences and told the world the truth.

"I am proud that Enfield marks Holocaust Memorial Day, bringing generations together to learn from the past and to ensure that we build stronger communities that can live together in the future."

The evening event begins at 6.30pm. To book a Tree-mendous: residents win battle to get railway embankment replanted

Felled: The railway embankment

A THREE-YEAR fight to get Network Rail to replant trees it controversially cut down in Grange Park has culminated in a victory for residents.

Following a meeting with Enfield Southgate MP David Burrowes last Thursday, the company has agreed to a five-year replanting and maintenance plan at the railway embankment off Green Dragon Lane.

Mr Burrowes has been fighting a battle with the firm ever since it cut down the trees at the site close to Grange Park railway station without consulting residents in January 2011.

He called the meeting after continuing concerns had been raised that the replanting was not being done according to previous agreements.

Network Rail's operations manager Paul Rutter told the meeting that the Tree Council, a conservation charity, had completed a full survey of the site and had been commissioned to form a five-year maintenance plan, which is to be in place by March.

Commenting on the victory, Mr Burrowes said: "I am pleased that after several years of misery, there is finally some good news for local residents."

"Network Rail has admitted that this situation should have never occurred, but it is important that we now ensure that the replanting of the embankment is completed in accordance with the wishes of residents."

The MP said the firm had also agreed to implement a new process of communication with local authorities and residents about future vegetation management projects.

He added: "I hope Network Rail have finally learnt their lesson that they must take the responsibility of the local environment seriously."

Network Rail said the Tree Council would continue to work with the firm to carry out annual inspections to ensure that the full re-plant is completed and the site maintained.

A spokeswoman said: "Network Rail fully understands and appreciates the frustration surrounding the removal of trees from Grange Park and lessons certainly have been learnt."

"We would like to thank the local community for their patience and look forward to working more closely with Mr Burrowes, Enfield Council and other interested parties in the future."

MP attacks 'appalling' train operator

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AN MP who has spent most of his working life commuting into central London has launched a blistering attack on train operators who leave their passengers shivering on platforms with no hope of their service arriving.

Enfield North MP Nick de Bois has become so frustrated by the litany of delays and last-minute cancellations reported to him by his constituents that he is determined to highlight the failings of First Capital Connect ahead of its bid to renew its franchise in 2016.

In an exchange with Andrew Lansley, leader of the House of Commons, earlier this month, Mr de Bois said: "If the Leader of the House was unfortunate enough to be commuting on the Hertford loop over the past four months, he would know that First Capital Connect and Network Rail have combined to give the most sustained period of heavy delays, cancellations and limited rolling stock, resulting in passengers having to resort to bikes on some days.

"My honourable friend the member for Enfield Southgate [David Burrowes] has joined me in meetings with those companies, but we feel that yet more progress has to be made, particularly with negotiations for a new franchise coming up.

"Will the Leader of the House find time for us to have a debate on this appalling service in our constituencies?"

Mr Lansley replied that the best forum might be to launch a Westminster Hall debate.

However, Mr de Bois is determined to go further.

He told the Advertiser that since writing to First Capital Connect a fortnight ago, asking the train operator for detailed information and action plans on how it is going to fix the issues, he had had no response.

"This is the time to strike the message home hard," he said.

"The only weapon passengers have got is to bring pressure to bear when it comes to First Capital Connect renewing their franchise."

Responding to the MP's criticism, a First Capital Connect spokesman said: "We will continue to work with Network Rail to allow more access to improve maintenance activities and to identify ways so we can improve the service that we offer to our passengers as we recognise the need to urgently improve performance."

"Network Rail has already announced a £15million investment package into the Great Northern route to improve reliability."

Facebook row councillor faces probe by Tory top brass

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A COUNCILLOR who has been selected to stand as a Conservative candidate in May's local elections is facing an investigation by his own party's HQ.

As was reported earlier this month, Chris Joannides, currently an independent councillor for Grange ward, had been chosen by the Enfield Southgate Conservative Association as a candidate in the council elections, pending approval by the Conservative Party.

It has now emerged that rather than approving his candidacy, the national party has launched a review of the councillor's suitability after a series of Islamophobic images and comments appeared on Mr Joannides' Facebook page more than a year ago.

His party membership has been suspended until the process concludes, which is expected to be in about five weeks' time. Mr Joannides has been an independent councillor since he was kicked out of the Conservative group last year after bringing the party into "disrepute". This week, in a statement to the Advertiser, leader of the Conservative group, Michael Laverder, said: "The Conservative group on Enfield Council is proud to count among its members people from the Christian, Muslim and Jewish faiths and people of no particular faith.

"The party's membership comprises individuals of other faiths and backgrounds. We take a zero-tolerance approach to racism and believe all those who hold public office have a duty to promote respect, understanding and tolerance towards people of all faiths."

Muslim Conservative councillor Ertan Hurer, who represents Winchmore ward, has told the Advertiser that the council's Tory group is "an all-inclusive party".

He added that from a personal perspective he had always "felt very comfortable and very welcomed" within the Conservative Party.

He added: "What you have to remember is that Chris is an individual. What he said, what he is alleged to have said, were not the views of the Conservative Party."

Mr Hurer said that the Conservative group had selected a number of Muslim candidates for this year's council elections.

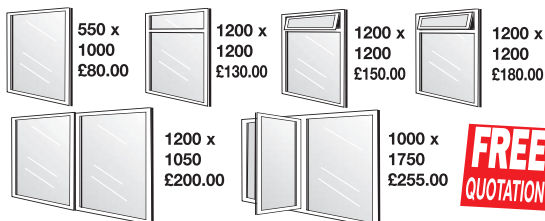

A Conservative spokesman said that Mr Joannides was unable to comment due to the ongoing process.

Coming down: The Alma Estate tower blocks

Buyout boost for Alma homeowners

Pledge to pay ten per cent above market value

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AS the wrecking ball dangles in front of a crumbling housing estate, the council looks set to approve the wholesale buyout of homeowners.

The Alma Estate, in Ponders End, with its distinctive pastel-coloured tower blocks, is undergoing a facelift. The tower blocks are earmarked for demolition and new homes are planned to replace the current decrepit housing.

While some of the residents on the estate rent through private landlords or Enfield Council, other long-term residents own their properties.

In a bid to speed up the regeneration process, the local authority's cabinet will be asked to approve a compulsory purchase order at a meeting tonight – allowing council chiefs to buy out residents whether they want to sell up to the council or not, freeing up their properties for the path of the bulldozers.

Although fears have been raised in the past that those residents bought out might not be able to find another home elsewhere due to age, employment status or their financial situation, the cabinet member for housing stresses that those affected will receive a fair deal.

Ahmet Oykener said that while the council was trying to come to a settlement with the leaseholders, if all negotiations and offers proved “unsuccessful”, the CPO powers means that the council could plough ahead with the scheme.

He added: “We are also developing a Framework for Leaseholders, which will be helpful in our negotiations because it demonstrates that we are making every effort to be fair and offer support and information to leaseholders.”

Currently, only 35 of the 170 residential leases on the Alma Estate have been bought.

In a bid to allay fears that homeowners will be left worse off after being bought out, council chiefs are insisting that they will be offered ten per cent more than market value for their properties.

Landlords who own properties on the estate will be offered seven-and-a-half per cent more than the market value.

A typical three-bedroom maisonette on the Alma Estate is valued at £165,000.

Jane
Johnson

Enfield Borough
Commander

THE start of the year has been challenging for the Met and for all boroughs following the inquest into the death of Mark Duggan and the verdict of lawful killing.

I have been ashamed that the integrity of London's police officers has been called into question following the conviction of police officer Keith Wallis for criminal offences surrounding the Plebgate affair.

What he did was disgraceful. He now deservedly faces the loss of his job and incarceration in jail.

Both of these cases will no doubt have an effect on public confidence, but I want to reassure you that we are working hard locally to deal with the issues that matter to you.

My officers do an amazing job in sometimes very difficult circumstances, often putting themselves at risk.

Only last week, two emergency response team officers responded to a call by a member of the public reporting a burglary in progress.

The officers arrived to find two men leaving with items of property they had stolen. When challenged, they sprayed a substance in the officers' faces and ran off.

Other officers responded and a search of the area resulted in the arrest of both men, who were later charged with burglary.

Both officers were taken to hospital for treatment and amazingly paraded for duty the following morning, despite red-riding to the eyes and having been prescribed antibiotics.

I'm proud of my officers who do a great job. For those who step over the line there should be no hiding place.

Fares fair? Can hikes in prices be justified?

LONDON Mayor Boris Johnson has been condemned by Labour's Enfield-Haringey London Assembly member Joanne McCartney for his so-called "inflation-busting" fare increases.

Boris denies this claim. Who is telling the truth here?

I checked with the Office for National Statistics, and can reveal that they both are! The average fare increase is 2.7 per cent, which matches the level of inflation measured by the Retail Prices Index (RPI).

But compared with the Consumer Prices Index (CPI), which stands at two per cent, it's 0.7 per cent over.

Regardless of which measure one uses, inflation is at an historic low, thanks, in part, to this Conservative-led government.

If Ms McCartney is looking for broken promises on London fares, she need look no further than Ken Livingstone, who promised not to raise them at all, yet increased them above inflation in every year of his second and third term.

She said not a dicky bird about those repeated eye-watering fare increases, despite being an assembly member throughout that time.

Raising the roof

HEARTFELT thanks to the good Samaritan who helped me out on December 23 when my van was stuck in a multi-storey car park.

Not only did he drive me home to pick up tools, but he stayed and helped me remove the roof rack so that I could extricate the van from a low beam.

life harder for Londoners with annual fare hikes above the rate of inflation every year between 2008 and 2013.

The Mayor of London's recent fares announcement may have kept average increases in line with inflation this year, but his poor communication with central government leaves a potential £20million hole in Transport for London's budget.

There is no guarantee the Treasury will stump up the missing funds, and investment in new infrastructure will suffer if the government leaves Mr Johnson hanging.

Meanwhile, the mayor throws away vast sums of public money on a succession of vanity projects.

By the time we have 600 of his new buses on the road, they will be soaking up more than a tenth of London's fast-declining government bus subsidy.

The mayor should be reducing fares and shifting the burden away from public transport users and towards the motorist.

This would make life easier for hard-pressed public transport users and discourage the use of polluting vehicles, which are choking our city.

Darren Johnson
Green Party member
London Assembly

□ JUST before Christmas two battery-powered electric buses started on the capital's roads and in a few months' time two more will start as part of a Transport for London trial.

Electric buses create no exhaust pollution, so can play a big role in tackling London's dangerous levels of air pollution. They are quiet, so lead to more pleasant roads for people living on bus routes. Electricity is also cheaper than diesel fuel, so in time could lead to cheaper bus fares.

With all these advantages London should be leading the way, but instead we are on catch up with many other cities in the UK and around the world.

Boris Johnson's obsession with the diesel-powered new bus for London has sadly hindered the development of truly new and green buses for London.

Trying to help least well-off

I REFER to Councillor Mike Rye's attempt to credit the government for this Labour authority's successful delivery of public services for the past four years without a council tax increase – despite unprecedented cuts in government funding (Letters, Advertiser, January 15).

As well as balancing the budget by doing more with less, we have reflected residents' priorities in our spending and in doing so have achieved record levels of satisfaction with council services highlighted in an independent poll of residents in the borough.

In contrast, the last Tory administration only froze council tax in its last year in power after increasing it by 15 per cent in its first year.

The fact is, the government is only interested in protecting the well-off at the expense of the hard-working poor. Last April it even cut funding for council tax benefits aimed at keeping this down for people on the lowest incomes.

By freezing council tax for another year, we are trying to protect hard-pressed families struggling to make ends meet as a result of the cost of living crisis which the government seems incapable and unwilling to address.

Doug Taylor
Leader of Enfield Council

MP should not be celebrating

DAVID Burrows says in his Christmas message to readers ("A time to remember others", Advertiser, December 18) he is pleased that by next Christmas there will be an Enfield winter night shelter organised by local churches.

If I were an MP, I would be ashamed that this was needed because homelessness has risen by 60 per cent in London in the past two years.

The charity Crisis and the Joseph Rowntree Foundation estimate that 185,000 people in England are now homeless and rough sleeping in London rose by 13 per cent last year.

We keep hearing that the economy is on the mend, yet cuts in housing benefit and woefully inadequate house building keep pushing up homelessness.

So perhaps next Christmas, Mr Burrows will have a better message.

Natalie's song is a big hit in UK contest

National triumph: Natalie Shay

By Kim Inam

kim.inam@nlhnews.co.uk

A TEENAGE singer-songwriter has won a national competition and secured herself a recording deal.

Natalie Shay, from New Southgate, was crowned the winner of Open Mic UK's 16 and under category at the Birmingham NEC on Saturday after performing her own song When This Year's Over.

The 15-year-old, who was a pupil at Ashmole School until last year, worked her way up through the competition, which was organised by Future Music, starting with an audition in September.

"There were five of us on stage and you had 30 seconds to sing a song," she said.

"You were then told to go off stage to one person or another and then you were told if you had got through or not."

Natalie completed two other heats before last weekend's final, which was judged by representatives from record labels Sony, Warner and Universal as well as four-time Ivor Novello Award winner Mark Hill, producer Gareth Henderson, Alex Baker, from Kerrang Radio, and head of Future Music Chris Grayston.

"I wrote the song a couple of weeks ago," she said. "It's quite rocky, where as my usual style is quite folksy. Most of the others did covers. I was playing my guitar."

Feedback from the judges included: "That's how a guitar should be performed! Great vocals and stage presence. Loved the energy and the original song."

Natalie started at the famous performing arts specialist college the Brit School, based in Croydon, south London, last August.

She said: "I thought it would be more school-like, but actually they respect our individuality and give you more freedom. It has helped to make me more independent."

Churchman's dismay as minibus is stolen

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Plea for help: Rev Adedayo Ige, whose church's minibus was stolen in Brimsdown

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A REVEREND has launched an appeal for witnesses after a minibus owned by his church was stolen from an address in Enfield.

Rev Adedayo Ige, of the Harringay United Church-Baptist in Green Lanes, is calling on anyone with information to come forward after the church's grey Ford Transit people carrier was stolen from Osborne Road, Brimsdown, on Thursday, January 9.

The vehicle, which has an estimated value of £17,000, was last seen there at around noon on that day.

The minibus has the words "Harringay United Church-Baptist" written on both sides and a registration plate YG10 EOA. It has a silver-coloured ladder at the back and a luggage carrier, also silver-coloured, attached to the roof.

Rev Ige said the van was usually parked in Osborne Road, near the house of the church's treasurer Olu Obidiye, when it was not being used.

"It's been a great loss because we used the van every week to take our elderly members to church and back," he told the Advertiser. "It was also used to transport young members on trips away and we used to lend it out to other community groups."

"The theft has been very inconvenient for our members, who have volunteered to use their own cars to take elderly members to church and back."

Anyone who knows of the vehicle's whereabouts or has information about the theft is asked to contact PC Adam Aspinall at Enfield Police on 101, quoting CRIS 5200950/14.

To remain anonymous, call Crime-stoppers on 0800 555 111.

Police crackdown leads to 13 arrests

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

CRIMINALS found that there was no place to hide last week after a single day of police action saw a raft of arrests for serious offences.

Police officers, working with trading standards, community groups and the London Fire Brigade, swooped on areas known for criminality and antisocial behaviour last Thursday, racking up a total of 13 arrests.

Acting on intelligence from the community, officers made four drugs-related arrests in Upper Edmonton.

A simultaneous operation to clamp down on prostitution led to one person being arrested for soliciting.

Police were also able to arrest an individual who was wanted for sexual offences after conducting inquiries in the area, identifying an address and heading there to arrest the suspect.

A spokeswoman for Enfield Police told the Advertiser that "as a result of posting a large number of proactive officers to an area", officers were able to make two arrests for burglary, while two others were detained over offences relating to an assault.

Police arrested a further three people for assisting an offender, theft and in relation to a public order offence.

Community grants really hit the spot

By Koos Couvee

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

COUNCILLORS have granted community groups almost £65,000 to fund a series of projects as part of the latest round of Enfield Residents' Priority Fund allocations.

At a meeting on Thursday, Enfield Council's ERPF cabinet subcommittee approved £64,985 of funding for 14 projects, bringing the amount which has been allocated to organisations since April to £1,420,647.

The ERPF is a pot of money for which residents can apply to the council to fund projects that will benefit their area.

A total of £220,419 is still available for projects if residents apply between now and the end of March.

The projects last week's meeting agreed to fund include a van in Bowes ward to collect bulky waste items and providing English and maths classes for the Bangladeshi community in Ponders End, as well as support for an arts trail and studio opening in Winchmore Hill and Southgate respectively.

The Edmonton Eagles Boxing Club, based in Montagu Road, Edmonton, was granted £3,960 to provide boxing and sports sessions for families.

Club president Penny Efstathiou said: "Our family sessions are an opportunity for parents and children to do boxing together, which not only brings benefits in terms of exercise, but also allows parents to be part of a child's development.

"We want to provide opportunities for people in one of the most deprived areas in London and the residents' priority fund has been a great support for us."

Packing a punch: Edmonton Eagles boxing club received a grant of £3,960

It is the second successful application for the boxing club, which received ERPF funding for a series of women's-only boxing classes last year.

Bambos Charalambous, the council's cabinet member for culture, leisure, youth and localism said: "The new year has begun with a whole new raft of fantastic Enfield Residents' Priority Fund projects.

"The fund continues to go from strength to strength and last week's meeting confirmed that £64,985 worth of projects are going to go ahead and be funded thanks to its continued success."

Enfield Council

Expression of Interest to Participate in a Framework Agreement for the Provision of Learning and Development Services for Health, Housing and Adult Social Care Staff

Enfield Council is seeking to establish a Framework Agreement with suitable companies/organisations/individuals for the provision of Learning and Development programmes for Enfield's and external partners' staff working within health, housing and adult social care.

Experienced, capable and qualified organisations and individuals are sought who can deliver a range of learning and development opportunities that will increase competencies, knowledge and skills of staff who contribute to the improvement of service delivery to clients in these areas.

The London Borough of Enfield is committed to providing on-going professional development opportunities to its staff and that of its partners and we produce and publish each year a calendar of opportunities that offers tutor led classroom based training, blended learning and Qualification Credit Framework (QCF) accredited courses. The training is required for staff whose skills levels range from complete beginners to advanced levels of training and for staff that work in specialist roles such as Social Workers, Occupational Therapists and Housing Specialists. Currently training is structured as one or two or half day courses and bite-size training (usually 2-3 hour sessions).

There are four (4) training lots pertaining to differing skills requirements. Prospective providers can bid for a single lot or a number of lots as appropriate. Prospective bidders MUST be able to demonstrate their experience and ability to offer learning & development opportunities for each lot they apply for.

It is envisaged that the Framework Agreement will commence from January 2015 and will run for a period of two years with an option to extend for further one year plus another one year, subject to review results. It is expected that award of the Framework will take place by September 2014.

Expressions of interest are therefore sought from interested organisations, individuals including joint applications or consortia.

Anyone wishing to be part of this Framework Agreement should complete the online pre-qualification questionnaire (PQQ) posted on the London Tenders Portal at www.londontenders.org

Closing date for submitting the PQQ is 1pm on Monday 17th February 2014.

Taste of silk:
Artist Rob Kessler explains one of the works in the exhibition at Forty Hall

A close-up look at world through art

By Jonathon Manning

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

AN art exhibition which explores the living world at a level not normally seen by the human eye has opened to the public.

Silken Cells, a free exhibition, is being shown at Forty Hall and its estate, in Forty Hill, Enfield, until the end of March.

It uses silk hangings, artefacts and microscopic images to delight visitors to the historic property.

Rob Kessler, the artist behind the exhibition, collaborated with botanical scientists and molecular biologists to produce a microscopic vision of the world. The parlour table at Forty Hall will be covered with a silk cloth printed with blown-up images of its threads.

The cloth will be embedded with microscopic images of pollen samples taken from plants found in the estate's gardens and parkland.

A set of ceramic plates, sponsored by ceramics firm Royal Doulton and decorated by micro-patterns of wood sections from the hall's mulberry tree, will also be displayed on site.

Bambos Charalambous, Enfield Council's cabinet member for culture, said: "This is a fantastic and thought-provoking exhibition which we are incredibly fortunate to have."

"It effortlessly links the disparate themes of Forty Hall and estate into a colourful and stimulating visual phenomena which will delight both art enthusiasts and the general public."

Silken Cells has been supported by the University of the Arts London, where Mr Kessler is the chairman in arts, design and science, as well as Central Saint Martins College and the Royal Botanic Gardens.

The exhibition will be on display until Sunday, March 30. For more details, visit www.fortyhallestate.co.uk

Manager: Ana Remigio is behind the farmers' market opening in Ashfield Parade

Farmers' market setting up stall

By Kim Inam

kim.inam@nlhnews.co.uk

A TRADITIONAL farmers' market will open in Southgate next month.

The Kings Market will launch on Sunday, February 2, with 15 stallholders initially offering a variety of fresh produce.

Approval was given last month for stalls to be set up on the pavement in Ashfield Parade and the organisers have since received a wave of applications from potential traders.

"The main traders have been selected," said market manager Ana Remigio. "We have a butcher, fishmonger, fruit and vegetable, cheese, flowers and plants, natural juices, artisan bread and street food including buffalo burgers."

Ana, who is a trained nanny, began organising markets after attending craft fairs and selling her wares. In recent years she has set up market stalls outside the Budgens supermarket in Crouch End, as well as the Enfield Island Village market and the indoor Crews Hill farmers' market.

"I wish I had more applications from people who are really local to Southgate, but you can't ask for producers to all live in the same place," Ana said, but she hopes that the Kings Market will have a wider benefit for the community.

She added: "If and when the market has made profit, then we will think about what we can do for the community – when that time comes we will decide what to do."

The Kings Market will be taking place every Sunday between 11am and 3pm.

Taxi to...Cuba

By Koos Couvé
koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A SOUTHGATE cabbie with a passion for the achievements of the Cuban revolution is donating his London taxi to a museum in the Caribbean island's capital Havana.

Tony Caccavone, 70, of Conway Road, is sending his Cuban-themed cab to the Havana Motor Museum in the heart of Old Havana after 16 years of service in which the Hackney carriage has clocked up just under 400,000 miles.

Mr Caccavone has driven the black cab, which carries an advertisement for Cuban holidays and has the island's flag painted on the bonnet and roof, around the capital in an attempt to "tell the other story" about the island.

He became interested in the nation when he picked up a Canadian tourist in 1995, who told him it was a popular destination for his countrymen and women.

A year later, the cabbie and his late wife Christina flew on holiday to the island, which has been subject to a commercial, economic, and financial embargo by the United States since 1960 after the US-backed Batista regime was deposed by the revolution led by Fidel Castro.

"When I got there, I got very angry about the poverty and lack of products in shops because of the embargo," he told the Advertiser. "But look at what the country has achieved despite it – more doctors per capita than any other country in the world, very low infant mortality rates, most of its lawyers and politicians are women and there is no racism."

Mr Caccavone said that when he returned from that holiday he went to the Cuban embassy in London, where he learned about the Cuba Solidarity Campaign and decided to paint the nation's colours on the cab.

He added: "I wanted to tell the other side of the story. I have taken politicians, lawyers and diplomats around London and told them about the Cuban revolution. I used to especially love driving around the American embassy."

"The museum will be the cab's final resting place, its spiritual home. My gift is a homage to the resilience of the Cuban people."

In 1997, Mr Caccavone shipped his cab to New York, where he led a convoy of more than 50 vehicles across the border with Canada in protest against the US embargo.

The group flew to Cuba afterwards and Mr Caccavone met Castro, who thanked the taxi driver for his efforts.

The taxi will be shipped to Havana next month.

Mr Caccavone, who has no plans to retire, is now driving a regular rented black cab.

ATTILA THE STOCKBROKER @ BUTLER'S BAR

7:30 PM SATURDAY 1 FEBRUARY 2013

SHARP-TONGUED, HIGH ENERGY, SOCIAL SURREALIST REBEL POET AND SONGWRITER. HIS THEMES ARE TOPICAL, HIS WORDS HARD-HITTING, HIS POLITICS UNASHAMEDLY RADICAL, BUT ATTILA WILL MAKE YOU ROAR WITH LAUGHTER AS WELL AS SEETHE WITH ANGER...

Inspired by the great Sussex poet Hilaire Belloc and punk, especially The Clash, he did his first gig on 8 Sept 1980, shouting poems in between punk bands. He quickly got two John Peel sessions and was on the front cover of Melody Maker - and he hasn't looked back since...

He's done about 2,800 more in 24 countries - at venues ranging from the Glastonbury Festival (every year since 1983) and countless other music and literature festivals in the UK, Europe, America, Canada, Australia and New Zealand to freezing punk squats in Germany to the Law Society and the Oxford Union and a hotel basement in Stalinist Albania.

He's released 6 books of poems and over 20 CDs/LPs, formerly with people like Unwins, Bloodaxe and Cherry Red Records, latterly via his own global cottage industry, Roundhead. (No cavalier attitudes!)

Attila is also a massive football fan, as reflected in his material, and a supporter of fans owned clubs - that's why he is playing at Enfield Town FC. He is poet in residence at Brighton and Hove Albion and his Goldstone Ghosts poem is on the walls of the supporters' bar at the Amex. He also coordinates his gigs with the Brighton fixture list and will be doing this gig on the way home from Albion's game at Watford.

As this is a football club gig you can expect a higher football content to the act than might normally be the case.

Restaurant getting down to business

Advertisement

By Kim Inam

kim.inam@nlnews.co.uk

BUSINESS was booming for the latest Turkish restaurant opening its doors to the hungry public of Southgate.

Middle East eatery Kervan Sofrasi launched its fourth north London outlet in Chase Side on Friday, and the tables and orders were being filled quickly.

The chain already has two restaurants in Edmonton and a joint enterprise with Haringey-based Gokyuzu in Wood Green – and the owners say they have made changes to the menu to suit the local clientele.

Veysel Yavuz said: "We saw an opportunity here – it needed a restaurant like ours, it's a great location, we hope it will do very well."

"We are trying to make it more refined dining, we have more fish and vegetarian options on the menu, so there's more variety of choice."

Mr Yavuz, who runs the Gokyuzu chain, grew up with his business partner Gursel Aksu in the village of

Partners: Veysel Yavuz and Gursel Aksu

Yesilkoy in the province of Kahramanmaraş in southern Turkey.

And between them they have 15 years' experience serving customers in north London.

The restaurant is situated in a former pub, which has taken six months to renovate.

Different food: The menu has plenty of choice, say the owners

The set menu is £13.95 and includes a plethora of meze starters, including borek, tabule, houmous and its own brand of taramasalata, served with pitta bread, while a choice of popular individual main meals is also available.

The restaurant is open seven days a week from 11am until late and will soon be launching a breakfast brunch on Sundays.

Once more unto the breeches...

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

FOR an exuberant, gender-bending comedy set in 17th-century Spain, head to the Arcola Theatre in Hackney over the coming weeks – but prepare to be confused.

As part of the Dalston theatre's Spanish Golden Age season, prolific playwright Tirso de Molina's 1615 comedy Don Gil of the Green Breeches has made a return to the small stage – and almost 400 years after its creation proves to be timeless buffoonery gold.

The plot revolves around Donna Juana (Hedydd Dylan), whose handsome husband-to-be, Don Martin, has left her to pursue the wealthy Madrilena Donna Ines (Katie Lightfoot).

Plotting revenge, she puts on a pair of green breeches and sets off to the Spanish capital, where she takes on the guise of the man Don Gil (Chris Andrew Mellon), whose handsomeness she is pretending to be – Don Gil of Valladolid – to woo Ines and destroy any chance of a relationship between the two.

Juana confuses everyone – not least Don Martin – when it suddenly appears there are two Don Gils and appears successful in making the posh Ines fall in love with him (her).

Meanwhile, she also pretends to be a lady called Donna Elvira and befriends the same Ines before telling her that Don Gil loves her too, almost sending the bewildered Ines into meltdown.

Juana tells her servant Quintana (Chris Andrew Mellon), who, while complicit, is also utterly confused by the situation: "When women take revenge, it goes like this..."

The comedy reaches new levels of absurdity when Juana starts to lose control – but will she get her man back?

Sean O'Brien's brilliant translation plays a big part in making this a lively production, which includes some excellent performances.

But while de Molina will doubtlessly have enjoyed writing such a complex plot, the underlying message – how a woman successfully challenges male power in a deeply patriarchal society – is almost lost in the cacophony of mistaken identities, fake love letters and deception.

JANE HOBBSON

Causing confusion: Hedydd Dylan as Donna Juana as Don Gil

So, be ready to have to pay close attention to keep up with a multi-layered tale of love, lies and deceit – as well as a lot of green trousers.

Don Gil of the Green Breeches is running at the Arcola, in Ashwin Street, until March 15.

Tickets cost £14 and the box office is on 020 7503 1646.

Boys carried back in time by a microwave

By Jonathon Manning

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A GROUP of disabled adults will be staging two performances of their latest musical next week.

Broken Silence, part of Face Front Inclusive Theatre, will be performing ZAP! at the Dugdale Centre, in London Road, Enfield Town, to raise awareness about the group.

The play focuses on two teenage boys, Matthew and Stuart, who are too lazy to help their mum around the house.

In desperation, she sends them back in time to 1940 to see how bad things were during the Blitz and World War II.

She is able to do this by using a time-travelling microwave.

Although this leads to some hilarious moments, the play also has some sad ones.

Director Jon French said the idea for the play came after the group "started talking about history and the changes between now and then".

ZAP! was created by the group and includes a number of original songs and movement pieces.

Broken Silence is formed of 20 adults with a range of disabilities, including learning difficulties, mental health issues or impaired mobility.

ANNE-MARE SANDERSON

Rehearsal: Denise Needs and Peter Faventi, who play the kids, and Maseret Zakai, who plays the mother, performing one of the numbers from ZAP!

The members are all unemployed and have often experienced prejudice in their lives.

Face Front works with the group to combat discrimination against disabled people throughout Enfield by using theatre as a positive tool to raise the quality of their lives.

Mr French insists that the group's first priority is always the drama.

"It is not run as any therapeutic thing," he added. "Obviously, there are benefits, but it is run for people who want to get better at drama."

Performances are taking place on Thursday, January 30, at 1.15pm and on Friday, January 31.

Tickets cost £5 and can be bought online at www.dugdalecentre.co.uk or by calling the box office on 020 8807 6680.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Stamp of approval: Myddelton House Gardens, including carp lake and exotic plants, have been recognised by VisitEngland

Gardens' flourishing renown

HISTORIC gardens in Enfield have been recognised as a high-quality tourist attraction.

Myddelton House Gardens and Visitor Centre, in Bulls Cross, has been awarded Quality Assured status by the English tourist board.

The audio tour of the gardens was highlighted in VisitEngland's report for being well-produced with storytelling using different voices, music and soft effects.

The gardens and visitor centre are run by the Lee Valley Regional Park Authority, whose chief executive Shaun Dawson said: "I am delighted Myddelton House Gardens has been stamped with approval by VisitEngland's quality scheme – and quality is at the heart of each of our venues.

"Our visitors can be assured by seeing VisitEngland's red rose outside our attraction. They will experience a friendly welcome, high standards and value for money.

Growing concern: The glasshouse at Myddelton House Gardens

"This award demonstrates how well head gardener Andrew Turvey and his team have done in providing such an outstanding experience for our customers."

The house and gardens were made famous by Edward Augustus Bowles, one of the 20th century's greatest plantsmen, gifted artists, writers and botanist gardeners.

EA Bowles, whose great nephew Andrew Parker-Bowles' first wife was Camilla Shand, now Duchess of Cornwall, lived in Myddelton House from 1865 to 1954.

He dedicated much of his life to transforming the gardens with his love of exotic plants.

Today the gardens have been restored to their former glory with eight acres of unusual plants and a carp lake, and these were recognised for their maintenance.

There is also a visitor centre, which contains a number of historical artefacts collected by the Bowles family, including parts of the original St Paul's Cathedral and the Enfield Market Cross.

Nothing is for nothing!

Unfortunately, this is often true – but ‘if you don’t ask, you don’t get’ is equally true so why not see what we can do to help find and secure the new home of your choice by considering some of the latest incentives available !

All schemes are Subject to Status and Terms and Conditions will apply – all of which we will happily explain to you. Email feespaid@lanesnewhomes.co.uk for information.

LEGAL FEES PAID

These are charged by solicitors or conveyancers acting on your behalf in connection with your property transaction and can be included in a Legal Fees Paid package if applicable.

STAMP DUTY PAID

‘Stamp Duty’ or ‘Stamp Duty Land Tax’ is a tax charged on land and property transactions at different rates according to the property value. Some developers may offer to pay it for you !

FEES PAID PACKAGE

A package can include a combination of all or some of the following; Legal fees, Valuation fees, Selling agents fees and Stamp Duty.

PART EXCHANGE

The obvious advantages of part exchange are that you have a guaranteed buyer and therefore won’t have to worry about house buying chains. Examples are EasyMove and Part Xchange Xtra schemes.

FREE FITTINGS

Standard specifications on new property are already very good. However, there can be additional incentives offered such as free kitchen appliances and free carpets or flooring – all of which can provide genuine savings in terms of your cash and your time.

HELP TO BUY

These are Government-backed schemes which help first time buyers and existing home owners purchase a home with as little as 5% deposit up to a maximum purchase price of £600,000 STS and are available on all Lanes New Homes developments, subject to status.

HELP TO BUY EQUITY LOAN

A Shared Equity Programme which applies to new home purchases featuring a 20% interest free (for the first five years) equity loan from the government. Buyers need to have 5% of the purchase price for the cash deposit and apply for a loan of 75% from a lender.

HELP TO BUY MORTGAGE GUARANTEE SCHEME

A mortgage guarantee scheme which can be used to buy a new or an older property. Again buyers need to have a 5% cash deposit and then borrow up to a 95% mortgage from the participating lenders.

Your home is at risk if you do not keep up repayments on a mortgage or any other loan secured on it. Email help2obuy@lanesnewhomes.co.uk

ACCURATE VALUATIONS IN ENFIELD

The main factors that affect the price achieved for your home are likely to be size, location and fittings. However, there are innumerable other variations that can add significant value.

Valuing properties in West Enfield is not like valuing properties elsewhere. There are thousands of different styles and in some roads every other property is quite different to the next. The knowledge to appreciate these differences can only be built up over time.

At Ian Gibbs, our valuers have built up that knowledge with over 35 years of valuing properties in the EN1/EN2 area and that experience heightens the chance of you realising the full potential of your greatest financial asset.

Before you look away, check out the figures!!

Last year two bedroom flats on this estate were selling for around £150,000. We rent a couple of flats here and while it's not the prettiest estate (let's be honest), they're great flats with good size rooms and just a few minutes' walk from Gordon Hill Station.

With a current rental value of around £1,000 pcm, these two bedroom flats are also a great investment, achieving a gross yield of 8%! That's pretty good by anyone's standards!

By contrast there are a number of new developments close to Enfield Town Station which are considerably better looking! And if you're lucky enough to grab a flat on the upper floors, the views across Enfield and beyond are absolutely spectacular!! Yes you will be paying upwards of £265,000 for a two bedroom flat, but lifestyle-wise that may well be worth it to you. From an investment point of view, these flats are also very desirable to tenants and will achieve premium rents of potentially as much as £1,400 pcm. So in terms of yield you could be looking at around 6.3%, which is still quite respectable.

If you're interested, I'm happy to discuss these and other investment opportunities.

It's never too late to join the mini sport market

By Iain Dooley

If you've been looking for a mini SUV, you may have noticed the absence of Ford in what's become a rapidly growing market sector.

The Blue Oval has finally fixed this omission with the EcoSport, a car boasting familiar Ford driving and design characteristics, plus a trio of engines promising to be kind on your wallet.

As befits a market sector focused more on urban agility than climbing every mountain, the EcoSport is front-wheel drive only.

Up front you have the choice of Ford's award-winning three-cylinder, 1.0-litre EcoBoost petrol motor, a conventional 1.5-litre petrol and frugal 1.5-litre, four-pot diesel unit.

Riding more than a little higher than a Fiesta, the EcoSport offers drivers a commanding view of the road.

Despite its "compact" tag, Ford's mini SUV's cabin is surprisingly spacious and there is enough room for four adults, or, more importantly, a growing family.

Bash-proof plastics abound in the cabin, which, while coming close to that of a Fiesta or Focus, are the obvious sign of the EcoSport's low-cost roots.

Still, what you can see and touch is of a good standard and the controls and displays will be familiar to existing Ford owners.

Also pleasing is Ford's generosity when it comes to standard equipment. Focusing initially on high-grade Titanium spec, the EcoSport lacks very little thanks to the inclusion of keyless ignition, alloy wheels, air-con, decent audio and plush upholstery.

Open your wallet a little wider and you can add leather trim, cruise control, rain-sensing wipers and Ford's feature-rich multimedia system complete with mobile phone connectivity.

While not built for outright speed, the car boasts a well sorted ride and weighty steering, which should instil plenty of confidence.

Much work has been done by Ford's engineers to tailor the EcoSport to the demands of European roads and drivers.

The bottom line is that a mini SUV drives much like any current small Ford, which is a considerable achievement and should be enough to give its rivals something to think about.

It's fair to say that, in 1.0-litre EcoBoost trim, the car is best suited to relaxed urban motoring.

Brisk performance is easily achievable but push hard and you'll soon be jealous of the extra torque and smoothness of the diesel motor.

The EcoBoost petrol-powered car might be quicker in a straight line, but the diesel's welcome extra slug of torque might be a deal-breaker for some.

Facts at a glance

■ Model: Ford EcoSport 1.0 EcoBoost Titanium, from £15,995 on the road.

■ Engine: 1.0-litre petrol unit developing 125bhp.

■ Transmission: Five-speed manual transmission as standard, driving the front wheels.

■ Performance: Maximum speed 112mph, 0-62mph 12.7 seconds.

■ Economy: 53.3mpg.

■ CO2 Rating: 125g/km.

The five-speed manual gearshift is slick in both cars, while the added flexibility of the diesel allows you to stretch the EcoSport's legs on long journeys.

Motorway cruising is a doddle and you won't need as many down-changes when attacking hilly terrain.

Other cars might have stolen a march in this market sector, but Ford's EcoSport can stand tall, confident it has the requisite talents to meet many of its rivals head on.

It might not have been first to market – but it's yet another first-rate motor from Ford.

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', 'T' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
 - (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
 - (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / date specified by the advertiser; or
 - (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

ADEBAYOR'S JOY AT SWANSEA WIN

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

EMMANUEL ADEBAYOR expressed his delight after helping Tottenham Hotspur step up their bid for a top-four finish in the Premier League by grabbing a brace in Sunday's 3-1 win at Swansea City.

Adebayor had effectively been frozen out of the side by previous head coach Andre Villas-Boas, but he has played a key role since Tim Sherwood took charge – becoming an integral member of the team and scoring six times in his last eight appearances.

Spurs were forced to withstand considerable pressure in the early stages of Sunday's match, but Adebayor's double helped them to take control as they moved level on points with fourth-placed Liverpool.

"It was important for us to keep the pressure on," he said. "It wasn't easy. The start of the game was a little slow, but when we get going, when we get our momentum right, we're a tough team to play against. We showed that at Swansea."

"We played good football. We had so many chances and took three. The most important thing was to take the three points and we did that."

"I'm happy to score the goals, happy for the team, happy for everyone."

And Sherwood was full of praise for both Adebayor and the rest of the team after watching Spurs record their fifth successive away league win – their best run since 1960.

"Adebayor has been great," he said. "It's obviously great for the football club and it's great for Ade himself."

"He's flying at the moment and he's enjoying his football. He's playing with a smile on his face and he's finding the back of the net."

"I thought we played well. Even though Swansea were having some chances from distance in the first period and they knocked it around, I thought we ironed it out in the end and got to grips with it."

In-form striker: Emmanuel Adebayor scored twice in Spurs' win at Swansea

"They do play a different way, they are brave on the ball, they do pass when marked and credit to them for that, but we always thought that we could catch them."

Sherwood added: "Even when they were having a lot of possession, I always thought we were the most dangerous side and it was just a matter of time before it clicked."

"We found that final ball and in the second half we could have won more comfortably."

Sherwood admits he needs to secure top-four finish

TIM SHERWOOD admits that he may need to secure a top-four finish in the Premier League this season to keep his job as head coach of Tottenham Hotspur.

Sherwood was handed an 18-month contract when he replaced Andre Villas-Boas last month, and Spurs have made an impressive start to his time in charge – winning five and drawing the other one of their six league matches.

However, the head coach is well aware of Tottenham's desire to secure Champions League qualification, and knows that his future in the post could depend on whether they achieve this.

"If the season was to end tomorrow the chairman wouldn't be too happy because we are fifth," he said. "The final league position has to meet the expectations of the club, otherwise it's 'goodbye Charlie'."

"The club need to finish in fourth place. Anything other than that is going to be a disappointment. Realistically we should be in and among it, but it isn't easy is it?"

"No one seems to be giving any leeway. I keep looking at results thinking 'surely they're going to drop points here' – and they don't."

"Other teams were probably looking at us thinking that we might slip up at Swansea, so we're not giving anything away either."

Sherwood added: "It's going to go right down to the wire. It's just about keeping that consistency and belief, and it probably boils down to how you're going to get on against each other."

Meanwhile, Netherlands coach Louis Van Gaal has admitted that he was approached by Tottenham over the possibility of taking charge at the club following the axing of Villas-Boas.

The former Barcelona and Bayern Munich coach has revealed his interest in working in the Premier League, but turned down the chance to join Spurs as he is fully focused on leading the Dutch to the World Cup.

"I want to work in the Premier League because that is the league I have not worked in yet," he said. "Everybody knows I was approached by Tottenham so I can admit it, but I don't do things in a double function and hold two jobs at the same time."

"I have refused the Tottenham job, but maybe there will come another chance. That is the difficulty with coaching. When you are free, then maybe there are no vacancies."

Sprint success for athletes

A DOMINANT performance in the senior men's 60metres proved to be Enfield and Haringey Athletic Club's highlight of the Southern Indoor Championships at the Lee Valley Athletic Centre over the weekend.
